SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

The following decisions and rescripts were received yesterday by the clerk of courts:

CUMBERLAND COUNTY, City of Portland vs. Union Mutual Life Insur-

Rescript—On the first day of April, 1882 and 1883, the defendant corporation had its office and principal place of business in the cfty of Portland and if legally taxable for its personal property was taxable there. By R. S., c. 6, 513, the defendant corporation was taxable for its national bank stocks, its bonds, securities and other personal property in which its funds and annual earnings had been invested unless exempt therefrom by one stocks, its bonds, securities and other personal property in which its funds and annual earnings and been invested unless exempt therefrom by one the exceptions in § 14 of said chapter. It is claimed that it is exempt by the seventh exception enumerated in that section. The court is of opinion that such personal property in which its funds and annual earnings and premiums received from its policy holders were invested are not "Personal property placed in the bands of any corporation as an accumulating und for the future benefit of heirs or other persons" within the meaning of said seventh exception and therefore are not exempt from taxation.

Judgment for the plaintiff.

Lewis Pierce, administrator in equity, vs. Catherine A. Stidworthy, and mixed, of which I shall die possessed, or which I may be entitled to at my decease, I give, devise and bequeath to my faithful wife, Catherine A. Stidworthy, to the term of her life, with the right and power to dispose of the income, rents, profits and interest of the same and with the further right to apply to her use, if needed, any part of the principal of the personal property, making her the sole judge of the need of so doing; and after her death I give and devise the same, or what may be left unapplied and unconsumed, to my children to be divided equally between them, the children of my deceased child to take the share of their penent; if all my children and grandchildren shall die in the lifetime of my said wife, then I will it shall go and belong to her absolutely, to dispose of at her pleasure, and if she does not dispose of a her pleasure, and if she does not dispose of the relawful. In 1861 Stidworthy owned one-half of the schooner Areade, which was destroyed by the oundederate cruiser Sumter, in Neerborn of that year, under the act of Concress overheave of the properson of the confederate cruiser Sumter, in Neerborn of that year, under the act of Concress overheave of the properson of the properson of the confederate cruiser Sumter, in Neerborn of that year, und during her lifetime, to descend to her lawful heirs.

In 1861 Stidworthy owned one-half of the schooner Arcade, which was destroyed by the confederate cruiser Sumter, in November of that year, under the act of Congress of June 5, 1882, the complainant as administrator of the will annexed on the estate of said Stidworthy applied for and received from the United States the damage sustained by said Stidworthy for the destruction of said schooner, which after settling his account in probate amounted to $2,595,52. By the terms of his will all of the property and rights to property or claims for damage to property possessed by said Stidworthy passed to his widow to be held by her as therein specified. The damage sustained by him for the destruction of said schooner was a claim for damage to his property and a property right which might have been assigned by him at the time of his death although not recognized by the United States and its payment provided for until the passage of the act of June 5, 1882.

The court is of the opinion that the widow of said stidworthy.

A Rough Passage.

The steamer New Brunswick had a rough time of it, on her trip from St. John to Eastport last Thursday. She left there at the usual time, and encountered one of the severest southerly snow storms of the season. The storm came up suddenly and a perfect gale with snow, lasted nearly a day. When the steamer approached Head Harbor the sea was so high and snow so dense, it was not considered prudent to try to make the land. The steamer was put about and run over to the lee of the Wolves, where she remained until the weather had cleared somewhat, when she started for Eastport again, arriving about 5 o'clock.

It will be remembered that the schooner

THE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

The List of Subscriptions for a Monument Outside of Market Square.

Will you kindly give place in your paper for the following communications, believing them to be the best answer that could be given to a communication that appeared in the PRESS the 1st inst., entitled "History Repeating Itself," which has hitherto been treated with silent contempt, (the best way whom allusion was there made.

The writer would not now refer to it were it not to say that the following plan was de vised and set on foot by the signers of the at the door of each ward room, in the corri- article alluded to, several days before that article saw the light.

The undersigned, believing that Market Square is an unsuitable site for the Soldiers' Monnment, and that the removal of Old City Hall will put upon the city an additional burden which onght not to be borne, and earnestly desiring to have a noble memorial to commemorate the virtue and patriotism of our brave soldiers, hereby pledge the following sums for the erection of an appropriate monument to their memory, provided Deering's Oaks, Western Promenade, or Lincoln Park be chosen for the site and Old city Hall remain intact:

Look Here. To the Editor of the Press: The argument that the Old City Hall lot must be the best site for the Soldiers Monument, because those who oppose it cannot agree upon any other, has not such validity as to justify the Advertiser in its so frequent repitition. It is not their business to agree upon another site. Everybody however be as follows: knows that, as soon as the committee become aware that the erection of the monument in Market Square is attended with too many difficulties and too much expense, they will not be twenty-four hours in agreeing upon another spot. It will be all the easier for them to so agree, for the very reason that the emonstrants who probably constitute a majbe committed to await the action of the ority of the stockholders of the Monument. Today the agents for Dunlap's hats open a full line of these celebrated goods in every large city. A. L. Merry, the hatter, is agent for the hats and has all the different styles.

Today the agents for Dunlap's hats open a few figures. First the actual value of the old City Hall is very readily determined by income to the city, and not by a fictitious value placed upon it by this one and that one, for allowing that a party could be found who would give $50,000 or $60,000 even, could any citizen be found who would advice the different styles.

vocate the selling of this property? Supposing the present structure should be burned would the citizens of Portland sanction an appropriation to rebuild a building of any description on the Market square lot? Let us see what the real value is. First, the amount of rent received from Messrs. Kendall & Whitney, viz: $1500 per year; and second, cost of hiring rooms to accommodate the militia now quartered in the building and for ward uses, for which expense $1500 more per year would be a large sum,—much larger, probably, than would be required; this would give the gross income of the property as $3000 per year.

From this deduct yearly cost of repairs which has averaged $282.52 yer year (see city auditor's report for the past six years), $50 per year for janitor, and nothing for insurance, in all $332.52 per year, leaving the net income $2,667.48 per year.

Now the material in the old building would undoubtedly bring at auction enough to pay for its removal and probably cover the cost of grading the lot, the city would not have been required to expend any money and would still own and control the lot the same as now.

Where and how let me ask will this in-not have been required to expend any money and would still own and control the lot the same as now.

Where, and how let me ask will this increase the city debt $200,000 as has been as serted? On the contrary I believe that in the immediate future the present income of the property would be returned to the city treasury more than three-fold every year in taxes received on the increased valuation of property abutting in Market Square.

I am aware that some may say that less than $2700 per year is not a fair statement of the income value of this property, as Messrs. Kendall & Whitney are reported to offer to lease the building at a yearly rent of $3750 (5 per cent. on $75,000) but it is not stated at same time they require the entire building on these terms which would necessitate the removal of the armories, and also that they would require the city to change the two upper stories and put them in condition to accommodate their business.

How much of this $3,750 would there be left after deducting yearly cost of repairs, interest on cost of making required changes and rent of armories.

Furthermore is there not a great deal of presumption, to say the least, on the part of a minority of only 1-8 of the total vote in this question to come forward and say to the majority of 7-8 "you can't have this location. When you erect a monument it must be when we can give our unanimous consent," and ask that some other locality shall be selected that will meet their unanimous approval. What cheek. Seven-eighths were divided on five different locations, and some of them even can't agreegon any locality that would suit them. If this is not impudence divided on five different locations, and some of them even can't agree on any locality that would suit them. If this is not impudence pure and undefiled, what is it?

Now I will give my reasons for voting in favor of Market Square:

First—Because I think the spirit of improvement demands the removal of that unsightly pile of brick and mortar, monument or no monument.

Second—Because demolishing the old building would remove a nuisance which has existed in the very heart of the city for more than thirty years.

Third—Because there are no historical associations connected with the building.

Fourth—Because giving this location would cause less expense to the city than any other.

would cause less expense to the city than any other.

Fifth—Because I believe it to be the best, most fitting and most desirable of any location in the city.

Sixth—Because it would add more to the beauty and attractiveness of our city than it would in any other place we could put it.

Seventh—Because it would be placed where all citizens and strangers could view it without going out of their way, and copperheads couldn't dodge the sight of it, as they would if it was placed in some out of the way corner, and ner, and Eighth—Because seven-eighths of our citi zens gave as their free and unbiased opinion preference for this location. VETERAN.

The performance will begin at 2.30 p. m. The Boston Transcript said of Dobson the other day: "The occasion was especially interesting in one respect-Mr. Dobson appeared on the concert stage for the first time in five years, and his banjo solos appeared to give the greatest satisfaction of any numbers on the programme. This shows either that Mr. Dobson has a host of admirers, or that the instrument of which he is the master has made a remarkable advance in popularity in the last few years—possibly it shows both.

A woman calling herself Mrs. George M. Dutch, a widow, hailing from Chicago, came to this village Thursday and applied to some members of the Masonic Fraternity, for assistance. The committee investigated the matter and were satisfied that she was the same person who had been in Portland and other parts of the State foisting herself upon the Masonic Fraternity. They provided her with a ticket and sent her on her way re-

The board of health report the rate of mortality in the town during the past year extremely low, there having been only 102 deaths, which on the basis of 6000 inhabitants is 1.7 per cent. A large portion of the deaths have occurred among the children and from complaints incident to the summer season.
